

2026 PA Safety Days

Call for Presentations - accepted online at www.pa1call.org/safetyday

Pennsylvania One Call is issuing a “Call for Presentations” for its FIVE Safety Day Conferences across the state.

Our goal is to provide attendees with high-quality learning experiences that foster professional growth, innovation, and collaboration. We invite professionals, educators, and subject matter experts to submit presentation proposals.

Presentations should be educational in nature, offering participants valuable insights, practical knowledge, and actionable takeaways.

Submissions that promote products, services, or specific companies will not be considered.

FIVE Safety Day Presentations

Speakers or organizations committing to present at all FIVE Safety Day conferences will be scheduled for a 45-minute session at each event, which includes time for audience questions and answers. By agreeing to participate, presenters acknowledge the expectation to deliver their session at all five conferences to ensure continuity and consistent program quality.

If the primary presenter becomes unavailable, the organization must provide an alternate speaker.

Individual Safety Day Presentation

Not able to commit to all five conferences? PA One Call would still welcome you to share your expertise. Speakers or organizations able to commit to present at an individual(s) Safety Day conference will be scheduled for a 20–30-minute session, which includes time for audience questions and answers.

Session length subject to change. Session length at a minimum of 20 minutes
